If we ever have a dictatorship here, Miss Emily Woodward, of Vienna, Ga., thinks we shall deserve it. "Our indifference to our privileges as citizens, and our indifference to the integrity of our government is leading us to dictatorship... possibly. And we shall deserve it. WINS FOUR AWARDS

Marietta Publication Sets Record in National Newspaper Contests.

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., June 20,-(P)-For the first time in the history of the National Editorial Association, four awards were given today to one publication—the Cobb County (Ga.) Times-in the annual newspaper contests.

The paper, published at Marietta, Ga., by Otis L. Brumby, was adjudged best in general excellence in typography and newspaper production in the weeklies' contest, and best use of illustrative material and general excellence of papers for weeklies of more than 1,000 circulation.

Brumby received the awards from Charles L. Ryder, of Cobleskill, N. Y., during the first day's session of the editors' annual convention.

Childbirth Is Painless Under Hypnotic Influence PEACH SHIPMENTS

Railroads Anticipate Greater Movement as Fair Weather Is Predicted.

Atlanta railroads are looking forward to an increase in the shipment of peaches the latter part of Kiwanis the week to stabilize a market badly depreciated by rains.

Prospects of good weather heightened expectations of carriers that shipments of fruit would return to normal by Thursday.

J. R. Turner, of the Atlanta

Joint Terminals, said yesterday he expected the market to "pick up"

Atlanta the latter part of the week. Tor-rential rains over the peach-growng area during the last few days retarded the movement of fruit.

The Terminals ofticial said shippers are anticipating moving approximately 10,000 carloads of peaches between now and the close of the season August 1, in addition to between 17,000 and 18,000 carpads of melons.

Steps to prevent any slump in the price of peaches detrimental to growers are being considered by the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation. Decision to enter the market as a buyer was made by the FSCC Friday following a meeting at Macon which was attended by about 75 per cent of the state's peach growers.

Grant P. Borde:, representative Joe L. Shelton, of Memphis, and the government intends to stay in the market through the clearance Miss Jimmie Frances Hamby, of Attalla, and several brothers and sisters.

SLOW TO LEARN

If it is true that the shades of those great teachers who have given their wisdom to the earth through the centuries now inhabit some Mount Olympus from which they look down upon modern mankind, the emotion of hopeless disappointment must frequently be predominant in their ghostly ruminations.

For so many of them must remember how. during their own earthly spans, they gave to humanity the key to perfect life. They pointed the way in terms so simple that none could misunderstand. Yet, today, the world still goes upon its foolish and cruel path, reaping the bitter fruits of selfishness, of greed, of man's inhumanity to man.

Down through the ages, from the lips of philosophers and teachers, the way to the millenium has been so often charted. Yet, in vast majority, man yet chooses the road of sorrow and turns an earth which could be paradise into an imitation of hell.

From the earliest recorded history of man these exhorters have laid down the creed of peace and charity and content. For centuries the word was spoken. Then, near 2,000 years ago, their teachings focused in the words of The Man, the Christ sent to redeem the world,

But still, despite His life and death, stupid man remains deaf to the creed He promulgated.

Christ drew together all those ancient teachings. Yet we can go farther back than those days beside the Sea of Galilee and find truths written upon which we could build a world

There was a Brahmin gymnosophist, for instance, who died centuries before Christ, His name was Pilpay, or Bidpai. He wrote:

"We ought to do our neighbor all the go we can. If you do good, good will be done to you; but if you do evil, the same will be measured back to you again."

That truth has been repeated and repeated, through the succeeding years. Christ himself, in the sermon on the mount, resaid it in the

"Therefore all things whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them; for this is the law and the prophets."

The platform is written. From that platform perfect human happiness, security and peace could not fail to spring. It has been waiting, for thousands of years, for adoption by all mankind. Some day the statesmen, the rulers, the diplomats and the people themselves will see the truth.

Until they do, misery and sorrow and death must ride the hurricane and strike with the whirlwind.

SCOUTS POINT A MORAL

A thing most difficult of conception is that of a militant troop of Boy Scouts. Despite the great and good work of the organization, one quality they seldom are found to possess is that of militantism.

Yet Newark found a very determined group of youngsters, early one June morning, bent on preventing citizens from marching over the great seal of the United States, set in the foyer of the post office in that New Jersey city. They had been taught that to tread on a replica of the seal was almost as heinous a crime as that of marching across the flag. So they picked Flag Day and a time when the Hague "free rights" hearing was being heard upstairs, to form a circle about the seal to divert the march of the populace in the foyer. An unsympathetic and harrassed postmaster apparently was as astounded as everybody else, and quickly dispersed the boys, passing the buck and telling the troop to write Postmaster General Farley for the action they desired. Unusual as the action may be, the spirit which prompted it is one which this country has seen too little of in recent years. Many people are inclined at times to be a little careless of the form and substance of respect toward the flag and the symbols of government. If militant scouting be the answer, more of it

For Flag Day, a janitor of a southern public hall ran up an old banner with 46 stars. We trust this is the last of the Maine-Vermont jokes.

Dictators deter war, thinks Il Duce. As democracy disappears, naturally there is less for which the world must be safeguarded.

A biologist believes it likely that man in some earlier state had four hands. Are we to suppose that contract was originally a form of solitaire?

A critic thinks too much relief money goes for administration. It's the old story of carrying fruit to the pal in a hospital and helping him eat it.

IMPORTANT READING

It is doubtful if there is a problem facing the American people today of more vital concern than that of the railroads. There can be no question that, for a vast majority of the railroad lines of this country, their financial structure is disintegrating. Higher operating costs, inescapable fixed charges and reduced revenues have created a situation that carries a serious menace to every one.

The financial structure of the roads is so inextricably interwoven with the economic life of us all that a complete collapse of the rails would inevitably mean serious loss to everyone. Rail securities are held by public and semi-public organizations. Many railroad bonds are the property of various states. Many others are listed among the assets of the great insurance companies. They form the greater part of various trust funds, established for philanthropic or educational purposes.

Should rail bonds lose their value, it would be the average men and women who would suffer. They would suffer through the loss that would accrue to their state treasuries and. thence, to the schools and institutions maintained by the states. They would suffer through their insurance policies, through curtailment of advantages previously provided by the donors of trusts, etc.

The railroad workers have protested against a reduction in wages which the roads, in their dilemma, have asked. The side of the workers has been told. It is but fair that the arguments on behalf of the roads should likewise be given to the public.

One railroad peculiarly close to the south and to Georgia, the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis, presented its argument for lower rail wages in an advertisement which appeared in The Constitution of Monday. Figures and facts are given in that advertisement in a way which cannot be misunderstood. It is a clear and calm presentation of a situation, as it is applied to that particular road, told by the road itself.

In simple justice and for the sake of our own protection against the loss which would accompany collapse of such a road as the N. C. & St. L., everyone should read that advertisement carefully. There may be better reasons why rail wages should not be reduced. Perhaps the road is right in its request for the reductions. Whichever viewpoint is correct, it is not fair to denounce either road or workers without listening to both sides of the argument. Wherefore, as a matter of rudimentary justice, everyone, including the railworkers themselves, is asked to read this advertisement. It appeared on page two of The Constitution of Monday.

RUTH AND MEMORIES

It must have been with tingling spine that George Herman Ruth stepped onto Ebbet's field on Sunday to receive the acclaim of the thousands who had not forgotten the erstwhile darling of the baseball gods.

With a defiant gesture at time, he swung a still-bludgeoning bat in practice to prove his eye and timing were much the same as always, though the strong legs had gone.

To the faithful in the stands there was more than an aging man taking a cut at the ball; there were memories evoked of the bestknown man in baseball history-the picture of the gaunt kid who came from an orphanage to become the ablest left-handed pitcher of his time, but whose hitting prowess was such that he became an outfielder so that he might play every day.

When the Sultan of Swat came back, memories both pleasant and sad, came with him. Memories of the boy who took long years to grow up, for he still has much of the boy in him. Memories of the man whom baseball cast off when his years were done. Memories of the man who became the symbol of America to people who did not know what first base meant. No hero ever served his public more cheerfully or more faithfully, and it is heart-warming to know he stands again on the diamond. even though it be in the coaching box. He knows baseball as few men know it. The crowds love him. He is baseball and baseball has been the poorer without him.

Editorial of the Day

FREIGHT AND WAGES. (From the Washington Daily News.)

If minimum wage standards are to be made national instead of regional, say southerners and westerners in congress, then something should be done to make the freight-rate structure national instead of regional. For transportation costs as well as wage costs determine a manufacturer's ability to sell his products in competitive markets.

The southerners and westerners, we think, have a good argument. And we are glad to note that their leaders in congress have begun to place more emphasis on wiping out freight differentials and ess on freezing wage differentials by law.

The lawmakers of the south and west have made concessions to the point where the fight over the wage-hour bill no longer revolves around the proposal to fix a national base pay at 25 cents an hour for the first year. Nor does there seem to be much opposition to the compromise suggestion of graduating the minimum up to 30 cents an hour in three years. But above the 30-cent level-and on up to the ultimate goal of a 40-cent national minimum—spokesmen for the south and west in-sist that they must have wage differentials operating in their favor until the freight differentials which operate against them are wiped out.

Nor can they be blamed for their stand. For it is a fact that existing freight rates not only act as a barrier to the movement of southern and westers products into the large markets of the north and east, but also give some northern and eastern competitors an advantage in tapping the markets of the south and west. Our freight structures are regional, but they give no protection to the high-freight regions. For instance, the cost of shipping from a point in the north and east to a market center in the south is less than the cost of shipping an equal distance from a southern manufacturing point to the same southern market

A general overhauling of freight rates to wipe out inequalities and establish a national system of fixing transportation costs has long been overdue. It is something on which congress and the Interstate Commerce Commission will have to do much work before we can ever hope to fix a mini-mum wage standard above the bare subsistence

That can't be done overnight, but it must be done. For, to attain a national standard of living, we must have a transportation system which permits a national distribution of goods,

THE CAPITAL PARADE

By JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

NEW DEAL PURGE WASHINGTON, June 20 .- The President's determination to purge his party of heretics has often been questioned since the disastrous Iowa pri-mary. A few days ago it was reported in this space that the decision to carry the heresy hunt into difficult states, such as Colo-

All doubts of the President's present zeal may now be forgotten, however, since it is learned that he has asked Attorney General Homer S. Cummings to find a candidate to run against Senator Augustine Lonergan in Connecticut. Lonergan is a plump, talkasition to the court bill. In a normal state, he would not be diffitive, nervous, rather mournful fellow, whose chief crime cult to knock off, for he is not the sort who works the voters up to a frenzy of admiring enthusiasm. But Connecticut is not a normal state. It has no primaries. And in order to knock off Lonergan, the New Deal candidate must win a majority of a Democratic nominating convention bound and hogtied by the state organization.

As the President's heresy hunt is essentially an effort to destroy the local political organizations with the federal political organization, the difficulties involved in the project to beat Lonergan can be imagined. Of course, the attorney general may not find a suitable opposition candidate. Of course, the President may change his mind tomorrow. But the mere fact that such a project has been undertaken at all is vastly significant.

FRUITLESS SHOPPING TRIP In the last week or so, the canny old attorney general has been shopping round for an anti-Lonergan candidate on Capitol Hill. He has visited the Democratic representatives from Connecticut. He has tried to put the heat on Lonergan's much shrewder colleague, Senator Francis T. Maloney. He has talked over the possibilities with several friendly experts.

He has met with disappointment to date. Although the heat put on Senator Maloney was very warm indeed, Maloney refused to melt. He likes Lonergan, who has always relied on him very heavily. More important still, he remembers that he too is guilty of Lonergan's crime. And he reasons that if opposition to the court bill is to become a sentence of political death, he will be the next

THE NO-SAYERS Being a very old hand at Connecticut politics, Attorney General Cummings must realize on what a hard task he has been set. Maloney is one of the most influential men in the state organization. His refusal to yield will mean much. To date, State Chairman J. Francis Smith also has refused to yield. So that the organization's biggest men are still united. And finally, Governor Wilbur Cross, who is not an organization man, but is the most powerful Democrat in Connecticut, never liked the court bill and may be expected to dislike the effort to destroy Lonergan for opposing it.

Thus it seems that the attorney general's only resort will be detach outlying segments of the state organization and then reinforce their revolt with help from the federal machine. It is understood that certain local potentates already have been approached. And word comes from Connecticut that in at least one county the WPA foremen are already marching against Lonergan.

And besides making a rebellion, the attorney general must find his candidate. Several men have been considered, including Archibald McNeil, the former Democratic national committeeman: Edward G. Dolan, a close friend of Postmaster General James A. Farley; Assistant Attorney General Brian McMahon, and Representative Herman Koppleman. No one man has been settled on, and more than one has refused to have anything to do with the business. Altogether, the sledding has been pretty tough, and prom-

BITTERNESS IN BACK ROOMS The curious thing about the project to destroy Lonergan is the degree of resentment it is said to have aroused among the Democratic leaders. The Connecticut Democrats already have on their hands a major scandal, involving graft indictments of many high officials. The word that reaches here is that they are furious at an effort to make things harder by an exhausting party

Strangest of all, the resentment is understood to go not only to the White House, but even to Postmaster General Farley. Big Jim has announced his neutrality. The boys in the Connecticut back rooms actually want him to fight to ward off their troubles.

One Word More The Love of Money Is the Root of All Treason to Democracy

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

Capital, as you know, is timid. As a winning pitcher feels no anxiety until he realizes that he is about to achieve a no-run, no-hit classic, so the ordinary citizen who is living well feels no terror until he gets enough money to love for its own sake. Thereafter he suffers like the proverbial hen with one chick.

The meat-eaters in the wilds are fierce and daring: the creatures destined to be eaten are soft and easily terrified. So in man's world the highwayman is bold, for he has nothing to lose but his life, while the fat burgher sweats in fear of losing his equally fat

History's story of sack and plunder is a story of trembling, purse-proud softies cravenly paying tribute to fierce and hungry pirates who despise them.

As man cannot serve two masters, nor love both God and Mammon, neither can he love patriotism and honor while he loves money While all about him, inspired by love of country and love of freedom, are pledging their lives and fortunes to save their land from a tyrant, the money-lover pleads and schemes for peace at any price. He will do business with the enemy. He will make any concession, endure any humiliation, make any sacrifice of personal dignity for another year of fancied security in which to make more money

We have seen it happen in China. The rich middle-class merchants, bankers and big land-owners urged "co-operation" with Japan on any terms, and kept a prosperous peace by sacrificing their country, until better men took the decision out of their hands. But when they were ruined and had no money left to love, they became patriots overnight and began to love liberty with the best of them. Having nothing left to lose, they were no longer afraid.

Fascists in England have behaved in the same way, sacrificing honor and national prestige and future security-not for love of peace, but for love of property and profits.

It is not the way of peace and security. You can't make contracts with a pirate. We must be strong enough to command respect, or learn patriotism the hard way in a hard school.

SUBLIME SIMPLICITY.

Tennyson, in his "Ode on the Wellington," declares that the distinguishing trait of character to be found in the great British soldier was the simplicity which marked his notable career. Said Tennyson:

"Foremost captain of his time, Rich in having common sense, And, as the greatest only are, In his simplicity sublime.

RENTALS REDUCED. PALMER ANNOUNCES

Action Follows Conference Between Atlantans, Administrator Straus.

Reduction in rentals at University Homes, the government's $2,-592,000 slum-clearance project adjacent to Atlanta University, was announced at Washington yester-day by Nathan Straus, administrator of the United States Housing Authority.

The reduction was effected as the result of a conference last week between C. F. Palmer, chairman, and J. D. Robinson Jr., vice chairman, of the Atlanta Housing Authority, and representatives of the USHA.

Shelter rents for the 675 dwellings comprising the project were reduced from an evarge of $5.87 per room per month to an average of $4.30. Gross rents, which include the cost of heat, hot water. and electricity for refrigeration, lighting and cooking, were reduced

Low Rent Policy.

The reduction ordered by Administrator Straus is in keeping with his policy of making low-rent family dwellings available at the lowest possible rentals.

Universal Homes replaced a slum area which had proved to be a social and economic burden to Atlanta. The 675 decent, safe and sanitary dwellings consist of two and three-story group houses and three-story flats of fireproof brick and tile construction, built on a 19-acre site. Each dwelling is equipped for electrical cooking and refrigeration.

To Transfer Project. The United States Housing Authority is now administering the project. Under the provisions of Wagner-Steagall housing act, the USHA is disposing of all government housing projects by sale or lease to the various local housing authorities, as soon as practicable, and it is expected that the Atlanta Housing Authority will complete arrangements for possession by early fall. Average gross rents per month range under the reductions from $13.41 for a living room or bedroom to $22.80 for two bedrooms. The present rent for the same accommodations is from $17.38 per month to $27.69.

Chairman Palmer confirmed the announcement made at Washington last week that no change contemplated for the present in rental schedules at Techwood Order Placing Property on Block Follows 3 Years of Litigation.

ROME, Ga., June 20.-After three years of litigation, the Summerville Cotton Mil.s will be placed on the auction block July 26. in accordance with an order issued here by Rowell C. Stanton, referee in bankruptcy for the United States district court.

The order of sale includes the big plant, with its 15,000 cotton spindles and 400 looms for making awnings, 100 employes' houses, tonseed oil mill, and two big springs supplying the town pump-ing station and the water distribu-on system of the town.

With property valued at $700,-000, the mills went into bankruptcy July, 1935. For a short period the property was in charge of a bondholders' protective com-

The big plant, however, has been in continuous operation through receivers who have leased property, and the sale next month will be carried out in such way that operations will not be stopped, it was announced.

Officers Batter in Door and Find Mrs. Nola Rivers Fatally Wounded.

An Atlanta woman was shot and fatally wounded in her home yes-terday and her husband was arrested on a charge of suspicion of murder after barricading him-self in a room and threatening arresting officers.

The victim, Mrs. Nola Rivers, 50, of 547 Simpson street, N. W., died at the Grady hospital from gunshot wounds which police say were inflicted by her husband, Jesse H. Rivers, 62. He is being held without bond.

Officers J. E. Sims and S. D. Priest answered a call for help sent in by neighbors and found Rivers had locked himself in and refused to come out. A son, Clif-ford, was called but failed to persuade him to surrender.

The door of the room finally was broken into and Rivers, still armed, submitted to arrest. Mrs. Rivers, unconscious with wounds in head and and arm were thing in the control of the still armed. in head and arm, was lying in a corner. She was rushed to the hospital but died about an hour after her arrival.

Officers said the son begged nem to shoot his father if they couldn't get him out any other way but he surrendered after a call had been sent in for tear gas.

Neighbors reported they heard the couple in a loud argument and that this was followed by three shots. Members of the family said Rivers had been in poor health for some time and that they feared his mind had been affected.

The speech of German Finance Minister Walther Funk last week accusing the United States of being the "hell" of the economic world, and picturing Germany as the Heaven, was received here with more indifference than indignation.

That Germany is paying close attention to America's attitude was clearly indicated by a statement Saturday by the government-created editorial agency, Diplomati-sche Korrespondenz. It said that Secretary Hull's peace policy was "a decidedly one-sided conception of international co-operation" because the aim was co-operation with the democracies rather than

with the dictatorships.

Ancient Indian Liquor Factory

Discovered in West Texas Cave

WASHINGTON, June 20.—(P)—
The oldest brewery in the country—a plant which apparently turned out a flood of powerful drink centuries before Columbus discovered America—has been found by Smithsonian Institution archaeologists in the Big Bend country of west Texas.

The new cave, however, turned out to be a highly-specialized one. The accumulation of debris, particularly the talus, or stones which were heated in fires and dumped into pots for cooking, was many times thicker than in the caves used as homes. It indicated that Setzler previously had explored dwelling caves in the limestone cliffs of the area, finding cooking implements, remains of fires and bones.

And it is reasonable to assume. Setzler said, that the formula of its preparation was handed down from the prehistoric races. It is made by heating the ground-up plants, pressing out the juice, and allowing it to ferment.

He hoped so, Clay was thinking to himself as he started for the office. It all had turned out better than he dared hope, so far as Mr and Mrs. Schloss were concerned It would be a considerable weight lifted from his mind and conscience, if young Layne only would rise to the bait.

The following Sunday morning found Clay feeling unusually weary and depressed. The sun was shining brightly, but he lingered wakefully in the depths of his big black walnut bed. For some reason, he couldn't muster any enthusiasm for early breakfast, the sight of Romulus in his dreary Sunday clothes busied with that unspeakable mackerel and boiled potatoes. And there was no urge to have coffee and ride down to the office and attempt to lose himself in work.

What he should do on such a gorgeous day was to take the canoe and go for a long paddle on the lake. And he didn't believe he could. He couldn't leave the memory of Larry ashore. She would be there with him, her wistful eyes looking into his. Queer

He roused himself to utter a disinterested, "Well?" when a tap sounded on the panel of his door. "I brought you a pot of coffee, Mr. Clay," said Annie Kime, Wardlaw's housekeeper. "I decided you wasn't comin' down. Mr.

Clay proceeded to shave and dress. It all was like waking from some dream. Now, he could understand why he had received that decisive note from Larry, that later rebuff on the street. If Romulus had called upon her with some sort of proposal, or, worse still, a threat, Larry might easily have been persuaded that it was Clay's own wish. He could imagine how humiliated and furious she must have been. And this made it "What's happened between you easy to guess why Griff had been and that little Layne girl? That is true of the common table fork, but forks of other kinds were employed in some places at early dates. Metal forks are known to have been used at pigs or other animals while they were being carved by the host or

Italy is believed to have been the first country in Europe where table forks were used. They were known there long before the fash-ion spread to England. We have a note about a woman in Venice which is believed to have been written about 900 years ago. Match Play Begins This Morning on Druid Hills Course.

By ROY WHITE.

Miss Martha Daniel, from the Coosa Country Club, Rome, Ga., picked up where she left off last year in winning the Georgia woman's championship tournament and stroked her way to medal honor Monday morning on the Druid Hills course.

The defending champion had a 40-42-82, four strokes over women's par, to beat out Mrs. Colleen Butler, former Atlanta champion, by four strokes. Dorothy Sanford followed in third place with an 88.

An early morning rain cut a large expected entry list to 45 players. Mrs. Ben Barrow, the Druid Hills representative in the association, paid her entry fee, but will serve as starter and will not

Not only did the rain cut the attendance but it sent the early scores several strokes higher than usual. Only the veteran players and late starters were content with

By the official decree of President Ford Frick, the Reds had moved into undisputed possession President Frick, to clear up considerable confusion, ruled that the protested game between Cincinnati and St. Louis of May 14, which shall be replayed, shall go down in the records as a tie game instead of a loss for Cincinnati.

St. Louis won the protested game but Frick ordered it replayed in August. Until yesterday, however, Frick ordered the game listed in the official standings as a defeat for Cincinnati and a victory for St. Louis until the replay.

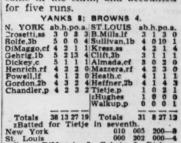

With one out and Wally Berger on first in the Reds' half of the final frame, Ival Goodman belted a triple to right-center to score Berger with the deciding run. He scored a moment later on Frank McCormick's long fly. Behind the seven-hit pitching of big Bill Lee, who hung up his eighth victory of the season, the Chicago Cubs pounded out 11 hits to whip the Dodgers, 5 to 1, and keep at the heels of the second-place Cincinnati Reds.

The Cubs' attack included a home run by Ripper Collins with a man on base, which gave the Chicagoans their first two runs, and a single, double and triple by Phil Cavaretta. Luke Hamlin, who started on the mound for Brooklyn, gave up Collins' four-bagger and was driven to cover in the seventh, when the winners got three more runs on four hits.

The Goose Thinks There Is No Flaw in Rudy's Swing or Batting Stance.

Rudy York the Atco assassin, may not be the greatest natural hitter in the game of baseball. But no less judge of hitting talent than Goose Goslin, the Senators' veteran outfielder, told Baseball Expert H. G. Menzel Beats Briton in Three Sets; Don Has Sore Throat.

WIMBLEDON, England, June 20.—(P)—The 57th all-England championships opened as a tennis tournament today and quickly developed into a garden party.

There were two reasons for this—the women were not playing and Don Budge was the only man and Don Budge was the only man around who seemed to count.

As usual, the American Davis cup ace won. He polished off Kenneth Gandar-Dower, of England, in exactly one hour by the scores 6-2, 6-3, 6-3. After that he went to bed to nurse a sore

After Budge had won by staying on the baseline and killing Gandar-Downer's soft lobs, the crowd gave the day over to drinking tea, reclining under muli-colored silk parasols and puffing meditatively on pipes in the

But sleek, swaggering young Eric Filby brought them hurrying back to the center court by threatening to eliminate the Eng-lish ace, H. W. (Bunny) Austin. The 22-year-old Filby, who lives next door to Wimbledon courts, beat Austin at Surbiton last month and, using tactics he learned then, he nearly did it again. The English stylist rallied, however, and finally won, 4-6, 6-1, 3-6, 6-4, 6-3.

> A world traveler and former consul from Portugal to the United States, thinks Atlanta's cyclo-rama is the best exhibit of its type he has seen anywhere in the world.

George Duarte and his mother, Mrs. Maria S. Duarte, were in Atlanta yesterday visiting Mrs. J. H. Lopez, of 892 Piedmont avenue

"Yes, I have seen the Battle of Waterloo' and many other famous paintings, but Atlanta's cy-clorama tops them all," he said. Mother Also Enthusiastic.

His mother, who has crossed the Atlantic 21 times in trips to her other European countries, expressed the opinion that "coming to Atlanta and not seeing the cyclorama would be just fike going to Italy and not seeing the Pone" to Italy and not seeing the Pope. Duarte gained nation-wide publicity a few years ago when he built a grape arbor on the roof garden of a New York penthouse, 18 stories above the city streets.

Morgenthau and Eccles Quarrel Over Bank Examining System.

WASHINGTON, June 20 .- (AP)-A quarrel on the proper way to examine banks led the Treasury tonight to serve a sort of ulti-matum on the Federal Reserve Board. Henry Morgenthau Jr., secretary of the treasury, announced that if the board did not indorse within 48 hours a program of examination approved by him and other government agencies, the program would be sent to the White House for approval anyway.

This emphasized a conflict of opinion between Morgenthau and Marriner S. Eccles, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board. Eccles wants a far-reaching "liberaliza-tion" of bank examination methods so banks will be freer to lend money. Opposing this, the Morgenthau group has drawn up a proposal which aims to standardize bank examination methods, but does not place nearly so much emphasis on

The Morgenthau program has been approved by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation and the National Association of State Bank Supervisors.

MY DAY

HYDE PARK.—There is probably little I can tell you about the last few days that has not already been in the news columns, unless I give you a few little personal sidelights!

Friday evening, after my mother-in-law and my grandchildren had arived at the hotel in Boston, I was to go to Nahant in time for a 7 o'clock dinner party, which we were having on the Potomac for the wedding party. My mother-in-law's sister, Mrs. Price Collier, was the only one at the hotel who decided to go with me. I imagine the children would have been delighted, but they were not invited. In any case, the ride but they were not invited. In any case, the ride from Hyde Park had left them very weary. Mrs. Collier and I left about 6:15.

I am not very fond of getting in and out of little boats and climbing up and down gang-planks in evening clothes, but there seemed to nothing else to do. We walked down the long dock at Nahant and finally reached a very wet float. We climbed into the motorboat which was to take us over to the Potomac, clutching long flowing dresses and knowing they were getting wet and dirty.

The Potomac itself looked very pretty, strung with colored lanterns, and we had some quiet time for conversation, for the young people had changed their plans and decided to dine at 8 o'clock. people had changed their plans and decided to dine at a victor. They all looked very attractive, but somewhat weary, when they finally arrived. I sometimes wonder if all the entertainment that

Mrs. Collier and I went back to the hotel about 11 o'clock. My small grandson, who was sharing my room, murmured sleepily, "Hello, Grandmere," and was wide enough awake to remember it the next day and insist that he had not been asleep, which I rather

They roused us bright and early yesterday morning to drive to Salem and join my husband and everybody else on the boat, and again we were ahead of time and sat pleasantly chatting on the deck for an hour before we left for the church.

the Rev. Endicott Peabody's part in the wedding ceremony is almost essential, for he has somehow succeeded in attending the weddings of a vast number of his Groton boys. Anne was a very lovely bride. As she and John ran to their car, her last look was for her mother. They were showered with rose petals and good wishes mother. They were showered with rose petals and good wishes, and the sun shone upon them, so we shall hope that the storms of life will be few and that, when they come, they may have strength

THE MODERN BUSINESS GIRL TAKES LESSONS IN RELAXING.

Heaven will have to help the working girl unless she learns to relax in this age of high-pressure iving. Even our recreation produces tension and we both play and work under strain.

Tension today is the most serious detractor from health, efficiency and looks. Recognizing this major problem in the life of the business girl, the national program of the Young Women's Christian Association fosters the activities and exercise courses that induce relaxation. The popularity of this program is proof enough of the

The fundamental part of such program is exercise, for relaxed muscles reflexly relax the nerves. In some of the classes you begin with posture exercises, generally of the stretching type, for a 15 to 20-minute period. Then for five minutes you relax quietly. During a third period someone with a ry or prose, and you lie on a mat and just "let go" with mind and

The following relaxation exercises, which should precede the period of relaxing, are a combina-tion of rhythmic movements in which you stretch, twist and flop.

First you stretch, then you fold Stretch to full extension, standing on tiptoe and with arms (1-2 H. T.) (Holding Doubleton) high overhead. Here is a new technique in side stretching:

Position: Standing erect, arms stretched high overhead.

Movement: Arms stretching upward, bend sideward, away over ... now stretch! From this posi-tion, "let go," relaxing all over, letting the knees sag, the waist slump and the arms hang limp. Bend to the other side and flop again. Repeat several times.

To lose tension through the shoulders, practice the following: Swing one arm straight out in front of the body, the other straight out in back. (G. A.) Answer-I believe in vaccina tion. I believe it should be offered freely to everybody who believes in it. If the health authorities are sincere they should be content to do that-and leave it to those who do not believe in it or want it to take their chances of going unprotected. By whatever tricks of the law they persecute a man who doesn't believe in it, they are to be censured, I think. However, if the laws of Pennsylvania are as tricky as the laws in some other states are in this respect, let Pennsylvania people change their laws to harmonize with rising level of intelligence. STOCK OPINIONS. COURTS & CO.—The action of the market for the past week showed that liquidation had dried up. The sharp raily Monday on increased volume is very encouraging. We would be prepared to buy on moderate reactions for trading turns and longer term positions. BEER & CO.—Although short covering probably helped make Monday's move as sharp as it was, it seems quite likely that the advance will continue to a test of the 121 level, where twice before. In April and May, the rise was stopped. THOMSON & McKINNON—Further improvement in share prices over the near term is likely as the recovery forces of the huge spending-lending programs are set in motion. FENNER & BEANE—It may not be prudent to add to commitments right after this sharp run-up, but we believe additional purchases may be justified on minor reactions over the next several days. Frenchman Urges Peaceful Solution of Wealth, International Problems.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 20 .-(P)-A call for settlement of the problem of wealth distribution as well ar international difficulties through mutual understanding was sounded today by Maurice Duperrey, of France, president of Ro-tary International.

Rotarians, who in many countries are leaders of industry, commerce and finance, know from experience," he said, "that violent solutions of problems are only fleeting remedies and do not solve the difficulties themselves. "They know that it is far better to come to a mutual understanding regarding the distribution of riches than to take them by force of arms, after which the same problems are bound to recur under another guise."

He cautioned the 29th conven-tion, however, that Rotary did not want to depart from its traditio al stand or play "a political role." Among measures considered by the council on legislation was a proposal by the Chicago clubs to change procedure in nominating candidates for international president, treasurer and directors.

Grand lodge officers came here to induct Wilkinson, appointed to the post last October. The Eliza-beth chapter, Order of Eastern Star, served a dinner following the services. BABY SAVES FAMILY. A five-month-old baby's cries prevented the burning of a farm home in Painsville, Ohio. The baby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Keasling, was awakened by the light of a fire which destroyed two barns and a brooder house. Backs From Rat And Breaks Rib

AUGUSTA, Ga., June Attacked by a rat here Satur-day, J. T. Styron backed away, trying to gain the proper dis-tance to strike the animal. Styron backed into a corner, fell against the kitchen sink, and

The girl closed her eyes. The end had come. She breathed a silent prayer, and waited. An expectant hush fell upon the cannibal horde, broken only by the insistent throb of the drums. Every savage eye was fixed on the girl, to see the death thrust.

The executioner's muscles tensed to start the spear on its fatal mission. Then, an arrow sped mysteriously from above, pierced the spearman's breast. He fell dead. Consternation seized the cannibal throng. Some of the women shrieked in terror.

Never such an exciting,

Helen opened her eyes. She saw the dead executioner at her feet. Was this a sign that she was to be spared? No! There was another fierce warrior creeping toward her with a long spear, ready to complete the interrupted work of his dead comrade!

Prime Minister Achieves Ambition When Camp Wins 76 House Votes.

DUBLIN, June 20.—(P)—Prime Minister Eamon de Valera achieved a long-standing ambition of gaining an absolute general elec-tion majority tonight as incomplete returns gave his party 76 out of the 138 seats in the house of representatives.

The tabulation at midnight showed W. T. Cosgrave's Fine Gael received 42 seats, Labor nine, Fianna Fail two seats stronger 200 new factories.
